Good News Recap

CUEvangelist Article Excerpt:

Credit Unions Must Rise!

Credit unions must rise and never cease to wave the banner of people of helping people.

Credit unions must rise to meet the credit needs of hard-working Americans and small businesses.

Credit unions must rise in improving communities through financial support and engagement.

Credit unions with the values of faith, family, and financial inclusion will rise and take their place as the preferred financial services institution worldwide.

Yes, there is good news in credit union land and the CUEvangelist is engaged in "Spreading The Good News About CUs!"

However, the best news is that Jesus is risen!

Highlight 1

"Mountain America Credit Union recently partnered with the Idaho Falls Spud Kings to donate $7,500 to Operation Warm based on the number of goals the hockey team made during the 2023–2024 season. This donation was made possible through the credit union's ongoing support of the Idaho Falls Spud Kings."

Highlight 2

"The Atlanta Hawks Foundation and Georgia's Own Credit Union joined together with Vision To Learn, a non-profit provider that grants free eye exams and glasses to students in metro Atlanta, to host a special celebration at William M. Boyd Elementary as part of National Reading Month."

Highlight 3

"OneAZ Credit Union announced that they are enhancing their ability to serve small businesses by now originating and servicing SBA 7(a) loans entirely in-house. This strategic move creates a streamlined process for small businesses seeking access to financing at competitive rates and loan terms with the flexibility the SBA's 7(a) program provides."
